[41-43]

W: Hi, there. Is this where Mr. Martin's speech on Chinese business culture is taking place?

M: Yes, but I'm afraid they've already started.

W: Oh, I see. I guess I had a slow start today. What's happening next door?

M: Ms. Pillai will be talking about environmentally friendly initiatives in the workplace, and then there will be a short question and answer session. They should be done in time for lunch. There are still a few seats left if you'd like to go in.

[44-46]

W: Hello, may I speak to Mr. Blake in Shipping, please?

M: I'm afraid Mr. Blake is on a business trip until the first.

W: Well, it's very urgent that I speak with him. It's about the order that was supposed to arrive on Thursday. Is there anything you can do?

M: I'll put you through to Mr. Blake's assistant manager, Ms. Medline. She is handling all of his clients until he returns. If it's an emergency, she can contact him directly on his cell phone. Please hold just a moment.

[47-49]

M: Hi, Phyllis. It's great to see you! Where should I put my coat?

W: Welcome, Joel. You can just throw it on the bed in the guest bedroom with all the rest. What's in the bag?

M: Oh, I brought some blocks and puzzles for the kids. They were my son's favorites when he was little.

W: You didn't have to do that. But I'm sure that they'll love them. They're always so bored when I have co-workers over. Thank you.

[50-52]

W: I'm here to apply for a credit card. I expect to travel a lot this year and a card will be useful.

M: Certainly. Please fill in this application. We need a few details for our records.

W: I already have an account with you. I'm sure you can verify all the details straight away.

M: I'll do that. We should be able to send you the card within the next 5 working days.

[53-55]

W: You'll never believe what happened to me today. I got my phone bill for this month, and it's over $100! The worst part is, I didn't make all of the calls. There's a bunch of extra long distance calls.

M: That's unusual. Did you remember to pay your last bill?

W: Yes, I always pay on time. And the only time I make long distance calls is to speak to my sister in America. I'm on the Internet a lot, but that's a flat rate every month.

M: You should call the service provider today and see if they can sort out the problem. They can probably remove those charges from your bill.

[56-58]

W: Paul, did you place that order for Mr. Tremblay? We want to get his office set up as soon as possible.

M: Yes. I managed to find all of the desk equipment with our usual supplier, but for some of the special pens and the calendar he wanted, I had to call the other place.

W: I'm afraid it's going to be too expensive to do two small orders. The company that has the pens and the calendar should have all of the desk equipment, too. See if you can cancel the first order, and buy everything from one place. If the order is big enough, they should give us free shipping.

M: Okay, I'll call them as soon as possible and sort that out. They usually don't ship them right away anyway.

[59-61]

W: Have you decided what you're doing for your summer vacation, Mark?

M: Well, Liz and I would like to go to Italy together, but the prices that our travel agent has given us are way out of our budget. It's probably because it's the busy season.

W: Well have you thought about trying one of those last-minute deals? If you don't care about flying first-class, sometimes flights are cheaper when you book late. You might want to try a search on the Internet. There are also discounts with some companies if you order online.

M: Thanks, I'll give that a try. I hope it works out. I don't want to be stuck at home!

[62-64]

W: Brian, can I talk to you? I need you to get that data to me by 11 o'clock tomorrow.

M: I thought you didn't need it until five. I have a conference call at 9:30 that I can't cancel.

W: Well, my dinner meeting with the clients was rescheduled to a lunch meeting at noon, and I need time to review everything before I go. I've asked Jason to give you a hand.

M: OK, I'll try to keep my call short, and I might stay a bit late tonight.

[65-67]

W: ABC Computers, this is Lara. How may I help you today?

M: Hi, Lara, my name is David Jones, and I'm wondering if you could tell me the name of the manager in charge of the human resources department in your L.A. office. I sent them my résumé recently, and I'd just like to see if they received it.

W: Our personnel manager there is Ms. Lori Garcia, but I should warn you that she prefers not to take calls about job postings. She will contact you if she wishes to schedule an interview. However, if you are concerned that your application has been lost, I can give you the number of her receptionist.

M: Oh, thank you. I wasn't aware that phone calls were discouraged. If the receptionist wouldn't mind speaking to me, that would be great. Could I have that number?

[68-70]

W: Excuse me. Do you know how many stops we have until we reach Oxford?

M: Just three more stops. We left London at 10:00 so it will take about 45 minutes before we pull into the train station. Just enough time to have a bite of lunch.

W: So that would put us in at about one, I guess. Great, I just got in from New York on the 8 a.m. flight. I'm going to be giving lectures on international development at Oxford for a year.

M: I think you'll enjoy yourself there. I graduated from Oxford myself years ago. I'm on my way back for a business meeting.

Dogs have often been referred to as a man's best friend. But medical studies are now proving that dogs often improve and extend the quality of people's lives. A recent study conducted by the Association For Human And Animal Relations says that people who own at least one dog have an 80% chance of living beyond 75 years of age. Those who do not own a dog were found to have only a 63% chance of living beyond 75 years of age. Dog owners also have a lower stress or anxiety level than non-dog owners. Dog owners are also considered more outgoing and more physically active than those who do not own a dog. The results come from a study involving 2,000 men over the age of 55. The study will appear in next month's issue of Dog Discoveries Magazine.

[83-85]

Hello, my name is Jennifer White, and I will be your tour guide here at this 13th-century fort. If you have any questions or comments, please feel free to ask me and I will be more than happy to answer. We are now at the famous gateway leading to the fort. This leads to the grand pavilion at the top that served as a royal court. Clap your hands under the dome here and people can hear you more than a mile away! The pipes there on the hillside were part of an efficient water supply system that carried water from the lake below to the fort's residents. We'll now see a special show that relates some of the major events that occurred here.

[86-88]

Hello, my name is Mike Schlichter and I will be your MC for the evening. Our first guest speaker this evening was born and raised here in Cannington Village. He was born here in 1967 and opened his first store in 1988 on Leatherlee Boulevard. Since then, his Omnicraft, Incorporated, has grown continuously and now has stores in five countries : Canada, Korea, Japan, Argentina, and France. He became a millionaire in 1995 and has become a best-selling author and motivational speaker. He is also the proud co-owner of the Cannington Canes of the Western Baseball League. Yet with all of these accolades and achievements, he is still proud to call Cannington Valley home. Ladies and gentlemen, would you please welcome Mr. Robert Crownwald.

[89-91]

Hello. My name is Ariel Johnson, and I'm the information technology specialist here at Overton Finance. I realize that some of you are not familiar with the new computer program we have installed on your computers, so I will demonstrate how easy and simple the Lifemail program is. The director, Laine Montross, has used the program and is very excited about how efficient it is. Our vice-president Maureen Donaldson has said it is twice as better as our old finance text program. I will show you first how to compose and send e-mail, and then how to send attachments and files. Finally, I will show you how to access the company's database from your own computer. Lifemail is famous for being the only banking-related program in the world immune to computer viruses. The seminar should only take about two hours so let's get started.

[92-94]

This is Vanessa Garbo with the traffic report. All of the cars on the three major freeways are moving swiftly this morning, as today is Thanksgiving holiday. On the western side of the city, traffic on the Donner Freeway and the Oppenheim Expressway is very light. On the eastern side of the city, cars on the Beaumont Overpass are moving without any problems. Downtown, there seems to be a traffic jam on the corner of Bishop and Montgomery. It appears there has been a minor traffic accident with no serious injuries. Elsewhere near Servo Street and Dante Avenue, a small pickup truck has flipped over and has caused one eastbound lane to be closed. Finally, the small group of 14 ducks we reported on earlier this morning has crossed French Lane safely. Two cars stopped for two minutes to allow the animals a safe crossing. For Chicago This Morning, I'm traffic reporter Vanessa Garbo.

[95-97]

The Town of Skibble is proud to be on the leading edge of improving the city's beauty and quality of life for its residents. We love to keep our town free of litter and our streets as clean as possible. As a result, we have decided to implement a new recycling policy. Starting on May 1, we will begin delivering a blue plastic recycling box and an orange plastic recycling box to homes for people to use. The blue recycling box will hold various items that were previously thrown in your regular garbage bag. The items that should now be placed in the blue box are the following: newspaper, paper, magazines, books, and cardboard. The orange recycling box will be used for heavier objects made of metal and glass. Items that should now be placed in the orange box are the following: glass bottles, pop cans, beer cans, beer bottles, tin foil, plastic bags, and tin cans. Both boxes will be picked up every Wednesday, the same day as your regular garbage is picked up. We hope this recycling program will ensure Skibble remains a beautiful, scenic town.

[98-100]

Good morning. My name is Jocelyn Romwell, and I will be presenting this lecture as part of the Steinway Historical Society Lecture Series here at the Margo Yellowfoot Theater. Today I will be talking about the role of technology throughout history, particularly since 1950 until the present day. I will begin my 75-minute lecture with a short slide presentation that summarizes different technological advances such as the telephone, fax machine, and of course mobile phones. My lecture will also feature some video clips taken from a brief interview I had with Hermann Muntz, one of the best known technology experts in the world. While this lecture deals with technology like mobile phones, I would be very grateful if the audience could turn off their mobile phones during the lecture. I hope that I will not bore you with too many details. However, I think it is important to provide a backdrop of the past in order to explain current technologies.
